Three Days of Fighting Near Valparaiso.

The Insurgents Land a Large Force and March on the City,

Driving Back Balmaceda's Troops-The Fight Still in Progress,

Three Thousand Men Killed or Wounded-The Insurgent Fleet Co-operating with the Forces on Land.

By Telegraph to The Times.

New York, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press.) The Herald this morning prints a Valparaiso (Chile) dis-

Balmaceda and the Junta de Go-bleruo are clifiched in the final desperate struggle for the mastery of the republic of Chile. The battle ground is in full view of Valparaiso. The battle has been raging for three days. The first engagement was at the mouth of the Aconcagua on Friday, and resulted in a reverse to the government. The final test of strength is now being made at Vina del Mar Beach, five miles from Valparaiso.

THE INSURGENTS LAND. On Thursday news came that an army of 8000 rebels had landed at Guambero Bay. Balmaceda was taken by surprise but soon got troops to the front to prevent if possible the rebels crossing the Aconcagua River. Sax insurgent warships anchored in Cosnon Bay at the mouth of the river, and the rebels attempted crossing under cover of the ships' guns. THE BATTLE RAGED nearly all day. The insurgent artillery, aided by the guns from the ships, was too much for the government troops, and they were forced to retire, which they did in good order.

Less than 20,000 troops were engaged, and nearly 3000 were killed and wounded.

The commanding general of the government troops chose a strong position on the brach Del Mar as his second line of defense, and having force enough in front of the enemy to check their progress somewhat, took his place there yesterday and went to work to strengthen it as much as possible.

BALMACEDANS DRIVEN BACK. The insurgents steadily pushed their way forward, driving the comparatively small government forces before them. It was a constant skirmish for fifteen miles over broken country. At every point of vantage the Balmacedans made a stand, and while constantly forced to give way before superior numbers they retarded the advance and gave the main army a chance to better prepare itself for a decisive fight. Late in the evening the attackng army arrived in front of Balmaeda's main line of defense. It was then too late to give battle.

BALMACEDA IN COMMAND. In the meantime Balmaceda bimself in command went to the front with The accident over 30,000 available men, while the insurgents had only about 7000. At the back of the government line is Fort Callao, whose heavy guns have done good work in today's battle, raking the army by land, and preventing the insurgent fleet from doing anything but lono-range firing.

The warships sent all available men with rapid-fire guns toward the land forces in the attack on Balmaceda's position. WATCHING THE BATTLE

Great excitement prevails in the city. Every one left here is anxiously watching the progress of the battle. A heavy pall of smoke hangs like s cloud over the city. The most power ful glass cannot penetrate it and only occasionally can the troops' movements be even guessed at. There is a constant STREAM OF WOUNDED being brought into the city from the eign commanders have combined to protect the lives and property of foreign citizens. Should the revolutionists succeed in defeating or repulsing the government troops in the present struggle they have to cross a small creek which sep arates the beach from the village of Vina del Mar, and on taking possession of the village would be in the rear of Fort Callao. With the fleet on one side of the fort and the insurgents on the other, it would be untenable. Thus the northern defense of Valparaiso would fall, making the work of capturing the city much easier. It is the universal belief that Valparaiso can be bembarded by the fleet should Balmaceda fall and the victorious army make a land attack. If on the other hand Balmaceda gains the victory the fleet will cover the retreat of the insurgents, and if necessary reëmbark the

THE DECISIVE STRUGGLE. All government officials here are confident that Balmaceda will drive the insurgents back, and if he does not entirely destroy them compel the remnant to embark in transports and return to the north. The fall of Valparaiso would mean the practical collapse of Balmaceda's power. Outside the forces now engaged there are no forces to oppose the march of the insurgents to Santiago, and they would with that city as a base of operations, soon overrun all the southern pro-

On the other hand the defeat of the insurgents would mean a result little less dscisive, for the rebels have put forth all the strength they have, and while Balmaceda would not be able to follow up his victory and take possession of Iquique and the northern provinces until the arrival of the new warships Errazuriz and Pinto, it is hardly likely the Junta could recover from a crush-

RECOVERING VICTIMS OF THE NEW YORK HORROR.

Sixteen Dead Bodles Thus Far Taker from the Ruins of the Collapsed Building on Park Place.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—By the Associated Press.] With the aid of hastily-placed electric lights the search in the débris of yesterday's disaster was kept up all night last night. A large force was put to work. Two fire engines were kept busy all night playing upon the heated brick and stone. Those who had friends suposed to be in the ruins formed a large part of the crowd that thronged outside of the police line. At inter-vals mangled and charred bodies were taken from the ruins and placed in the dead wagon that stood constantly near. Up to 9 o'clock this morning four-teen bodies had been recovered.

At 1:30 the bodies of two more men, burned beyond recognition, were removed.

As evening came on a heavy downpour of rain set in, which, with slight breaks, continued throughout the night. The workmen were withdrawn from their work and the crowds were scattered, policemen being left to watch

The complete list of identified dead up to 10 p.m. is as follows: Leonard B. Cole, John Gibbs, Sarah Ann Haegney, Michael Slattery, A. B. Peterson; George Low, Gustav Sickler, Jacob Herderich, Otto Walser, Charles Breitner, Frank Hatch. Five bodies, all men, have not yet been recognized. It is thought tonight that not less than fifty were killed in the disaster. In the morning means will be provided than fifty were killed in the disaster. In the morning means will be provided to remove the heavy iron girders and machinery which must be taken from the ruins before any more effectual progress can be made in clearing away the débris and getting out the remainder of the bodies of those who perished. Late tonight two more identifications were made as follows: Abraham Berschopki, Gustave Sterner.

Inspector Williams, who has been at the scene of the disaster almost from the first moment, said tonight in regard to the probable cause: "There was no explosion in that building, because there was nothing to explode. The accident was the result of weak the accident was the result of weak structure and the incessant vibration of heavy presses."

Many of the witnesses who saw the crash say the building slowly bulged out in the middle until it had formed a noticeable curve from the roof to the noticeable curve from the roof to the ground and then fell.

THE TORRID WAVE.

The cyclonic disturbance of Friday has moved rapidly eastward into Brit-1sh Columbia, causing a decided fall in the barometer throughout the Pacific the barometer throughout the Pacilic Coast States. The warm wave is broken throughout California. There has been a decided fall in temperature along the coast attended with heavy fog from Monterey northward. The fall in temperature at San Francisco has been 32° since the maximum of yesterday. In Southeastern California the wave has remained steady throughout the day, but being brought into the city from the front, and temporary hospitals are fitted up wherever possible. The medical force of the city has its hands full and all the women have volunteered as nurses.

From the wounded is gained but fragmentary information as to the progress of the fight, and it is utterly impossible now to form any judgment as to which side is getting the better of it.

Stormy Times in French Wine Districts.

Peasant Proprietors Arrayed against the Vintners' Combine.

Phylloxera Playing a Peculiar Part in the Contest.

Other Foreign News-A Roumanian Bishop Mauled by a Savage Mob-Shocking Patri-

By Telegraph to The Times. Paris, Aug. 23.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The agitation of young Lamare, an educated lad of 19. who is leading the turbulent wine-growers in the champagne districts, is an outcome of endeavors upon the part of the large wine companies to acquire and unite the small vineyards, with the object of localizing and stamping out phylloxers. The small vineyard owners stoutly oppose the project, which they suppose is aimed to reduce the yeomanry of the district to mere factory hands. There is no doubt that there are some grounds for their suspicions, but at the same time there is no doubt that phylloxera have made their ap pearance and are likely to spread rapidly. Lemare has secured an enormou influence to back him, but it is almost impossible for the movement be is at impossible for the movement be is at the head of to succeed, as champagne requires such a large amount of capital for successful production.

Apart from the invasion of phylloxera the French vintage justifies the gloomy predictions made in regard to the present crop of grapes, Up to the present the only vineyards which promise well are those of the Bordeaux regions. In La Dordogne and Laude departments vineyards have been ravaged by mildew and by black rot, three courses of sulphates having failed to arrest the progress of the disease. Throughout the department of L'Herault the negligence of grape cultivators has allowed mildew grape cultivators has allowed mildew to seriously prejudice the present har-vest and no second gathering is prob-able.

A resident of the department of La Gironde has written a letter for publication in which he asserts that only where vineyard owners have shown the measurement of the state of themselves careless or self-sufficient, and have allowed the vines to become surrounded with weeds, thus constituting fool of infection, has the trouble arisen. He adds that wherever the prescriptions of science have been properly and opportunely observed the vines are healthy and promise an abundant crop. There are signs of mildew in the department of Les Bouches der Rhone, but in Algeria the vines are well advanced, They are not scorched and have not been hurt by locusts. In Tunis a good vintage is anticipated, the harvest being estimated at 100,000 hectolitres.

Phyloxera have been variously present in the vineyards of Spain, Portugal and Italy. prescriptions of science have been Young Lemare, as already cabled, has written a pamphlet rnd started a weekly paper to advocate his views and incite the peasants to reap the profit of their work instead of allowing the wine merchants to do so.

MUTINY OR MURDER?

THE KILLING OF BLUM BY CAPT. BAKKER.

The Tragedy as Described by Members of the Crew Seems to Have Been Willwul Murder,

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—[By the Asciated Press.] Two firemen of the Obdam who were eye witnesses of the shooting of Fireman Duzer, or Blum, as they say his name was, today told their story of the occurrence as follows: "There are only three firemen left who saw the shooting. Blum was sick. He went to the forecastle and sat down. Chief Engineer Bolt came to him and asked him if he would not go work. Blum replied that he was sick and could not work. Chief Bolt told him that he could go to the hospital, but when he felt better he would work again. "Later the Captain came to see Blum. The latter was sitting with his elbow on a table, his head resting on his hand. The Captain asked him the reason he did not want to go to the hospital. "Blum answered: 'As soon as I feel "Blum answered: 'As soon as I feel better I will go to work again.'

"'Well,' said Capt. Bakker, 'you must go to the hospital.'
"Blum spoke up, 'I won't go to the hospital. I will go to work as soon as I am better.'

I am better."

"As soon as Blum finished his sentence, Capt. Bakker whipped out a revolver and pointing it at Blum said, 'In the name of the King,' and fired. After the shot struck him, Blum cried 'Lord! God! You hit me.'

"The Captain said 'You need not look so bad; it's only loose shot.'

"Chief Engineer Ball and the doctor of the ship took Blum to the hospital. The shooting occurred about Sunday night in the forecastle."

RAIN AND FLOOD.

Pennsylvania Towns inundated by a Cloud-burst.
POTTSVILLE (Pa.,) Aug. 23.—[By the Associated Press.] A fearful cloud-burst broke over Pottsville this afternoon and the water poured down in torrents for an hour. The thunder and lightning were frightful. Culverts were unable to carry all the water; some burst and a portion of the town was flooded. Fully 400 families were driven to the upper stories of their houses and their cellars and kitchens are filled with water and elimy mud. Railroad and Coal streets were turned into rivers three and four feet deep. the raging torrents carrying all sorts of goods and débris down to the Schuylof goods and deprised.

kill River.

Cars on the Reading and Penn sylcars on each vania railroads were moved by the flood and a passenger train on each road was blocked at St. Clair by the washing down of coal on the tracks, The silk mill and other large buildings were flooded and fire engines were put to work pumping out cellars. The damage is estimated at over Reports from Minersville, St. Clair, Point Carbon, Schavlkill, Havan Point Carbon, Schaylkill, Haven, Girardville and Mahoney Place tell the same story of devastation and damage by rain and flood.

A Birthday Party.

Last Saturday evening the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gary, No. 552 Bauning street, was the scene of an enjoyable social affair given by the host and hostess in honor of the nimeteenth birthday of their daughter Miss Blanche. In the grounds Japanese lanterns diffused a soft, mellow light. The interior of the house was quite tastefully decorated with evergreens, etc. Presents were numerous. Among the handsomest were noticed a plush dressing case, two solid silver napkin rings, a beautiful opers fan and a large portrait of the young lady, presented by her father. Festivities were kept up until a late hour, after which all dispersed, wishing Miss Blanche m ny happy returns of like occasions. Among the guests we noticed the following: Miss N. V. Ramsey, Frankle Corruthers Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Rev. C. W. H. Nelson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Unningham, Mr. and Mrs. Spiller, Mr. and Mrs. Jamleson, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Clarkson, Mrs. F. Gowens, Mrs. M. N. Hamey and son, Messrs, John Moore, W. H. Reynolds, G. Fuller, James Wilson, Alien Smith and Thomas Pearson.

The chaplain of the Seventh held religious services at headquarters, and this, with the evening dress parade, comprised the programme of the day. Many of the men spent the day in town, bathing and otherwise enjoying themselves.

The feeling is general among the officers and men that the camp has been a profitable one as a school of military discipline and instruction.

Col. E. B. Spileman of the Ninth is much gratified at the way his regiment is regarded by all who have seen it in camp. The com-panies are well officered, and their work at camp shows that they are students of mill-camp shows that they are students of miltary tactics at home.

After the dress parade the colors which the Ninth Regiment h.s used in camp were formally presented to the regiment by the adjutant. These colors are very handsome and are a gift to the regiment by the people of San Diego. Col. E. B. Splieman responded for the regiment in accepting the colors. The brigade will break camp today at 8:30 clock and arrive at Los Angeles on the train leaving Santa Monica about noon.

It was intended to remain in camp until tomorrow but Maj. Barrett found Saturday that funds were running short, and orders were given yesterday to strike camp this morning.

The usual amount of kicking was done, as a matter of course, and the boys were not at all backward about expressing themselves yesterday. Almost all of them had arranged to stay in camp ten days, and they cannot understand why they should lose one day. If they wish to become sureenough soldiers they should not let a little thing of this nature disturb them, for the first thing for a soldier to learn is to obey orders without a word, and he should be ready to move at a moment's notice.

Maj. Driffli, who inspected the Seventh before ga.rd-mount yesterday morining, was highly pleased, and stated to a Times man that a wonderful improvement has taken place since he last inspected them in April. Each company shows that its officers are taking great pains to make the men perfect, and if they keep up the present standard the regiment will be the crack when the next encampment is held. Even the poor companies in April have made wonderful progress, and Col. Schrieber should be proud of the work he has accomplished in so short a time.

It was expected that there would be trouble Saurday night as there were several dances at the caffon and in town, but all except should be proud of the work he has accomplished in so short a time.

ever they go to fight in real hard earnest, Johnson will be their man if he is among the living.

At 3 o'clock yesterday Col. Brown invited Gen. Eli Murray and a party of friends to accompany him to the Soldiers' Home, where a little lunch was served. The party e joyed both the ride and the lunch, and returned in time for dress parade.

The last dress parade at 5 o'clock was witnessed by several thousand people, and all who witnessed the same performance a week ago could not help but notice the improvement, which goes to prove that all has not been play at Camp Johnson. The men carried themselves better and were more prompt in carrying out their officers' commands. Even the officers showed a marked improvement. The commands were given in a better tone, and they were more manly and soldierlike in every respect.

That the encampment has been a success there is not the sightest doubt, and all concerned should be more than satisfied.

LIVELY SPOOKS.

Strange Scenes Witnessed at the City Prison.

That it is human to harbor in the make-up of every man from a grain to a ton of super-stition there is not the slightest doubt, and it is hard to find the man who will not feel a first class ghost story, if all the conditions are favorable. A ghost story always carries with it a certain fascination, and the human are ravorable. A ghost story always carries with it a certain fascination, and the human being does not live who will not go out of his way to listen to one or even to read it. This knowledge of hum in nature probably caused the editor of one of the greatest newspapers in the United States to add a spook department to his Sunday make-up, and he pays more for ghost stories than-any other class of matter. That this department is a good feature there is no doubt, for it is growing all the time.

Spook stories are not plentiful in these parts at present, but if some of the most reliable officers about the city prison are to be believed, the receiving hospital is now inhibited by one of the most frisky bands of disturbed spirits that ever visited any one house on this earth. As a rule, spooks do not go in doubles, and not more than once in a hundred years do they pay their visits in bands of five or six, but the city prison can boast of having a whole family of active ghosts, and there are at least two reliable officers in the police department who vouch for the truthfulness of the following singular story.

"About three months ago the night jailer ghosts, and there are at least two reliable officers in the police department who wouch for the truthfulness of the following singular story.

"About three months ago the night jaller was passing through one of the alley-ways when he noticed the arm of a woman protruding through the opening in the iron door leading to the cell where the Wickersham girl died, about a ydar ago. It will be remembered that the girl took an overdose if morphine in the Sixth-street Park and was taken to the police station. The receiving hospital had not been built at that time and the girl had, to be placed in a cell. Medical aid was called in and she recovered, or seemed to, and her recovery was thought to be a certainty by the doctors, so they left her and the cell was closed. A few minutes after the jailer's attention was a lied to the cell, and the poor girl was found to be in a dying condition. She had been searched and it was known positively that she had no more morphine about her person, but that she had taken a second dose there was not the slightest doubt, but where it came from will always be a mystery. The doctors were called back and everything possible was done to revive her, but all to no purpose, for she died a few hours after.

"This is the woman that appeared to the jailer and in her hand she held a morphine bottle. At first he thought a woman had been placed in the cell without his knowledge, but when he reached the door and attempted to grab the bottle he recognized the dead girl, and with a most unearthly cry she disappeared.

"Since then all kinds of shadows have filtted about the hall but he has never recognized the girl from that day to this.

"The receiving hospital was added to the jail shortly after the girl died, and four or five men have died in it. There is a large operating table in the room that stands against the back wall when it is not in use, and about two months ago, shortly-before five men have died in it. There is a large operating table in the room that stands against the back wall when it is not in use, and about two months ago, shortly before midnight, the night juiller was sitting near-the door that leads to the prison, reading, as is his custom, when he suddenly became drowsy, and as nothing was soing on he made up his mind to doze a while, so he turned, down the gas until the room was almost dark. A few minutes after, and before he had time to go to sleep, he heard the t-ble move out from the wall and takits place in the center of the room.

"Knowing that he was alone in the room, he jumped to his feet in astonishment. The first thing his eyes rested on was the table in the center of the room. A second look showed him a man stretched on the table, with another man standing by his side holding a bottle to his nose. He recognized both as men who had died in the hospital.
While he was watching the performance another man appeared, and he recognized him as a poor creature who died of the jim-jams a short time ago.
He was still struggling with the snakes and presented a most terrible appearance.

"The jailor slipped out of the room and called the police clerk who was dozing in the outer office. The clerk hurried back and for ten minutes the two watched the performance of the three spooks, when the table was quiety moved back to its place and the shadows disappeared.

"This performance has been witnessed a number of times since. The spooks appear two or three times a week, or whenever the hospital is not in use."

THE RAILHOADS.

Unexpected Visit of Southern Pacific Officials-General and Local Notes. General Superintendent J. A. Fillmore, of the Southern Pacific, came in from the North at 9 o'clock last night, accompanied by a party in his private car. Superintendent J. A. Muir met the visitors at the San Fernando station and accompanied them to Santa Monica, whither they went by special train. The officials did not tarry a moment in this city, and though their coming account in the state of the seemed significant no information could be obtained regarding the personnel of the party or the object of the visit. SCRAP REAP.

It is said that the railroad situation for Fresno is constantly growing brighter, and its future as a railroad center is now assured.

The seashore roads did a tremendous pas-senger business yesterday. The trains to Santa Monica, Redondo and Long Beach were all crowded.

The tardiness of the Catalina boat in arriving at San Pedro made the train from that place and Long Beach quite late in reaching Los Angeles.

On his way back to San Francisco Super-intendent Fillmore of the Southern Pacific is expected to inspect the new West Side road at Fresno, to be opened on the 28th

The latest report is that the Santa Fé is backing the San Joaquin Valley—Fresno's mountain road. It has been suspected all along that the Southern Pacific is back of the scheme.

The grading of Freeno's mountain road has been completed to the point north of the city where the line turns to the north-west, about Clovis Cole's ranches, and the work is being pushed with great vigor. Messra, Gillette and Tasheira, Southern Pacific surveyors, have returned from their trip to Bear Valley. Mr. Tasheira says that the visit to the mountains was simply to view the great Bear Valley dam, and had no connection with a possible railroad to that point.

POWELSON ASSAULT.

THE INJURED WOMAN STILL AT THE RECEIVING HOSPITAL.

Wound-One of the Most on Record.

Cora Powelson, the Alameda street prostitute who was so brutally assaulted by her husband, Frank Powelson, late Saturday night, remained in the receiving hospital at the city prison all day yesterday. The woman is in no danger, and will probably be able to get about today, but the fact that her skull is not crushed is no fault of her hus-band, as the club with which the blow was band, as the cuts with which the blow was struck is neavy enough to have felled an ox. The woman does not wish to prosecute Powelson, and he would probably get clear but for the fact that the assault was wit-nessed by other persons, which renders it immaterial whether the woman testifies or but for the fact that the assault was witnessed by other persons, which renders it immaterial whether the woman testifies or not.

As was stated yesterday morning the assault was a peculiarly aggravated one. Poweison has been in the habit of beating the woman whenever she did not furnish him with as much money as he thought she should, and whenever there was a row in the Poweison 'crib,'' it we known that the fellow was "thumping his woman," and but little attention was paid to it, as difficulties of that kind are of every-day occurrence in the vicinity. Saturday night Powelson went to the house at about the usual time. The woman had been drinking and was lying down in a back room, the front window being open. Powelson went in and demanded $5, and on the woman replying that she did not have it, the brute raised a heavy club he was carrying, and struck her full across the temple, cutting a gash about two inches iong. He then started to run, but several officers were on the lookout, expecting the usual row, and he was prompily nabbed. Powelson fought all the way to the station, and it was necessary to use some force, but not as much as might have been warranted under the circumstances. The case will come up before Justice Austin today.

In this connection, it is proper to state that a charge has been pending against Powelson for some months past for vagrancy, but it appears that it is impossible to get it to trial. Four other vagrancy cases are also pending, and have been granted from time to time, and all the machinery of the law is invoked by these people to postmake no defense.

It is believed, however, that the present outrage will arouse the authorities, and that a vigorous crusade will be inaugurated against the remaining members of the "mac" fraternity who infest the city. There is no doubt but what under the new vagrancy law, they con be all driven out, if the courts will only do their duty.

Found Dead in Bed.

Yesterday afternoon the dead body of a man apparently between 55 and 60 years of age, was foun age, was found in bed in one of the rooms of the New England lodging-house, at the corner of Second and San Pedro streets. The body was dressed in trousers, shirt and socks, and was lying in a natural position in bed, indicating that death had occurred during sleep, probably from heart disease. The C-roner was notified, and the body was removed to the undert king rooms of M. Hopkins & Co., on Main street, where an inquest will be held today.

The proprietor of the house said that the dead man's name was Davis, and that he find only been there a day or two. He said that he came from Oakland. He only had a valise, and from his appearance he was of the opinion that he was a working man. Only $2.65 in money was found in the dead man's pockets.

A Sensational Rumor.

A Sensational Rumor.
A sensational rumor to the effect that three people had been killed in a smash-up at the corner of Washington and Figueros at the corner of Washington and Figueros streets created a good deal of excitement last n ight. Upon investigation, however, it was ascertained that the report originated from the fact that a man, woman and child were thrown out of a buggy at that point about 7 o'clock in turning the corner at too sharp an angle, but fortunately all escaped with a few bruises. The horse attached to the vehicle ran away, dragging the buggy some distance, but finally became detached from the wreck and was captured at the corner of Grand avenue and Fourteenth streets by a clitzen named J. J., Grover.

As the animal had not been claimed up to a late hour late hour last night, the names of the unfortunate trio who were upset could not be ascertained.

Suicide of a Veteran.

Suicide of a Veteran.

Last eventing word was received at the Coroner's office that one of the inmates of the Soldiers' Home at Santa Monica had committed suicide by hanging himself. The name of the man was not given. It was stated that he was an old man, and that he had duce been an inmate of a lunatic asylum, but was discharged as cured, and has since been in the Home. The Coroner will go down this morning to hold an inquest.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Friday,

The San Francisco Chronicle of Friday, discussing the State assessment rolls, says:

A study of the assessment rolls of the State discloses some remarkable facts in more directions than one. Among other things it shows the utter falsity of the ancient proverb which ascribes Washingtonian characteristics to those symbols of quantity known as figures, and conclusively demonstrates that if they do not lie, at least those responsible for them have slight regard for the truth.

If there is any one fact that is more patent than another to one who has lived in California for a dozen years or more it is that the volume of railroad traffic has increased at an immense ratio. It is comparatively but a short time since the export trade by rail from California amounted to little. But within ten years there has grown up an immense traffic in fruits and vegetables, and many a time the companies have had to plead a lack of cars to accommodate all the freight that was offered. The passenger traffic also bas increased, and year by year the reports of the companies have shown a rapid augmentation of business.

The lands too, belonging to them have have shown a rapid augmentation of business.

The lands too, belonging to them have been sold for constantly increasing prices. Where they once were a drug at 50 cents and $1 an acre, they have sold for $10 and $20, and vast sums, millions, have thus been realized.

But, alas, for these outward signs and evidences of prosperity. They are utterly fallacious. Instead of denoting increased wealth, all this growth of business is but indicative of a constant depreciation and the steady, silent march of poverty. The melandoly story can be told better in figures—those figures that never lie—than in any other way. The down-hill progress of the poor Central Pacilia began in 1884, and the successive stages may be noted in the following, which gives the assessed valuation for each year since that date:

by those roads.

During the years in which the assessed valuation of the Central and Southern Pacific has been steadily decreasing there has been a constant increase in the assessment of other property throughout the State. Thus, in 1885 the total assessed value of the entire State was $817.466.000, while last year it had reached $1,009,000,000, while last year it had reached $1,009,000,000, while last year it had reached $1,009,000,000, or over $250,000,000 more. The following comparison of the railroad assessments of sever-it counties for 1885 and 1890 and the increase in the assessment on other property will show just how much the railroads have managed to escape their fair share of taxation:

He will have as a companion on his journey down there, Ralph Morris, an incorrigible had of 13, who will not remain at home, Morris is of a roaming disposition and prefers the companionship of Chinese boys to those of his own race. The boards of a doorstep also afford him more comfortable steeping quariers, he thinks, than a bed under the parental roof.

Cervantes and Morris will enjoy the distinction of being the first offenders sent from this county to the reform school. They appear happy at the prospects of having a change of climate, and gloat over a cell companion who was committed to the Industrial school.

"De school is a chestnut," said one of them yesterday, "but de new place where we is goin' is jest 'ker-fiap-bang.'"

At the new reformatory institution the boys will be taucht trades, and when they come out of it they will probably be wiser and more industrious.

WONG ARK.

His Second Trial for Murder to Com-mence Today.

The second trial of the Wong Ark mur-The second trial of the Wong Ark murder case, which commences today in Department Six of the Superior Court, promises to be as prolific of sensations and surprises as its predecessor, which resulted in a hung jury, as the Mongolian friends of the crafty defendant have been steadily working up evidence and undermining the prosecution for weeks past.

It will be remembered that in March last, Goot Gue, a Chinese prostitute, was shot in the abdomen while standing on the side-walk in front of her quarters on Apablasa street. At the time the deed was committed quite a number of heathen were in the immediate vicinity, and a large crowd was attracted thither by the reports of the assassin's gun. Officer Rohn and a rancher

When the case came up for trial the defense sought first to disprove the evidence introduced by the prosecution through the police, and falling in this, its next move was to show that Ark was with two of his friends in the place where he was subsequently arrested, at the time the fatal shot was fired.

Within the past few days a number of the defendant's witnesses have been arrested upon charges of perjary, for having testified falsely when upon the stand in Ark's behalf, and these cases have not yet been disposed of. The result of this action upon the part of the District Attorney cannot, of course, Its foretold; but it is currently rumored that a number of Chinamen upon whom the defendant relied have signified their intention of withdrawing from the case.

SPORTING NEWS.

NECESSITY FOR ENFORCING

Good Game of Baseball at the First-street Grounds - The Coming Races-Sea Fishing.

Saturday night there was to have been convention of gun club men from all over Southern California, but for some reason only three or four showed up, and the con vention was indefinitely postponed. The convention was called for the purpose of taking steps to prevent the wholesale slaughter of game out of season, at the hands of a lot of professional hunters, who make a living by killing game and selling it on the sly to hotel and restaurant men.

The Legislature has done everything ossible to protect the game of this State but as they can only frame laws it rests with the officers and the gun clubs that are composed of gentlemen hunters to see that they are carried out.

The delegates to the convention should have attended under all circumstances, for there is much room for good work in this outhern country, as there are a lot of scrub southern country, as there are a lot of scrub hunters operating all over the country, and if an example is not set soon there will be but little game in the mountains of Southern California within the next few years. It will be remembered that the Supervisors of an adjoining county loaned them selves to the professional hunters a few weeks ago and adopted an ordinance changing the State law as to the quali season, and if people of their standing propose to break the game laws then it is time for all lovers of sport in this State to rise up and see that the law is enforced to the letter where game is concerned.

TRAP-SHOOTING.

TRAP-SHOOTING No sportsman is so perfect in handling the shotgun that he cannot improve himself at trap-shooting, and for that reason the at trap-shooting, and for that reason the Winz Club that was recently formed in this city should become a flourishing institution. The club has selected fine grounds on the corner of Alameda and Seventh streets, and they are now in a condition to do good work if the members of the club will only take interest enough in the matter to attend the shoots and take a hand in the sport. It is the sinest practice in the world, and the members of such clubs in other cities are always considered the crack-shots. Before a club of this character was formed in San Francisco it was hard to find a crack shot with the shotgun, but they are plentiful now, and the same result will be attained here if the club is kept up

NOTES.

Sea fishing is poorer this summer than it has been for several years past. Even the jewfish seems to have chased off to some other waters, for there has not been a single good catch reported.

The yachting season at San Pedro is in full blast and it is about time to talk about racing. The new yacht, said by some of the knowing ones to be the fastest on the Coast, probably wants a chance to test canvas with some of the old stand-bys.

The late prize-ring fake in this city, when one of the "puga" skipped out with all the boodle, and left the audience with their thumbs in their throats, has given the manly art a black eye that it will not soon recover from, and the chances are that there will not be a fight in this city for some days to come.

The coming races at Agricultural Park promise to be ahead of anything ever held in Southern California. The only drawback is that the purses are not as large as they should be. If the association wish to bring good horses here they must put up big money, for it takes big money to draw big horses.

It is estimated that on the peninsula peach belt between the Delaware and Chesapeake bays there are 6,250,000 peach trees, covering 65,000 acres of land, and having a value of about $8,000,000. The picking of the fruit furnishes employment for 20,000 people at the busy season of the year.

Alarmed

The manufacturers of Alum and Ammonia Baking Powders are becoming alarmed because housekeepers of this city have seen and made for themselves tests of the various baking powders.

Knowing that the cheap and injurious adulterants alum and ammonia can be easily detected, they "warn" the public not to make a test, claiming that their powder is "absolutely pure," etc., etc.

Beware of a baking powder if its proprietors dare not tell all the ingredients used.

Everything used in Cleveland's Baking Powder is named on the label. This is a guarantee of purity and wholesomeness not given by other manufacturers.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

WEEKLY REPORT OF THE GOV ERNMENT BUREAU.

The Outlook Encouraging All ove Southern California-Fruit and Grain Yields - Cloudburst at Campo.

Following is the weekly weather and crop bulletin of Southern California, based on reports from voluntary crop correspondents, and published by the United States Weather Bureau for the week ending August 21; Hueneme (S. L. Mack)—The bean crop is very good on good soil, but is slightly burnt on alkali lands. Corn is looking well. Lancaster (James P. Ward)-The weather vas slightly cloudy during the week, with showers in the eastern part of the valley (Antelope Valley) on the 16th. No perceptible injury occurred to the crops owing to the rainfall drying quickly. Muscat and Zinfandel grapes are being marketed. Verdugo.(J. C. Sherer)—Warm weather is ripening fruit rapidly. Late Crawford or ripeniug Iruit rapidly. Late Crawford and Susque hanna beaches are coming in. Bartlett pears ripening, but of inferior quality owing to the work of the codlin moth. Apples a practical failure from the same cause.

quality owing to the work of the codlin moth. Appies a practical failure from the same cause.

Los Angeles (George E. Franklin)—The temperature during the past week ranged above the normals, showing a daily excess of 1° to 5°, the daily average being an excess of 4°. The highest temperature was 9°, lowest 61°. Clear, sunshiny weather prevailed, except during a portion of the day in the early part of the week.

Pomona (John Wasson)—A light shower of rain fell on the 16th—an exceptional occurrence—which laid the dust, but did no harm. Alfalfa hay in the low lands is being cut, the third or fourth time, averaging one and one-half tons to the acre. Delivery of beets at the Chino ranch has begun, and the sugar factory is now in practical operation, having begun August 19.

Rediands (Scipio Craig)—Local showers, prevailed the first part of the week, the latter clear and pleasant. Peaches and apricots of choice quality are in the market and are being dried extensively. Young orchards are looking especially fine. No disease of orange seed-bed stock, as reported, in this section.

Santa Ana (H. A. Peabody)—Fruit of every character, except citrus, ripening, and the markets abundantly supplied with the best. Threshing of grain still in progress and yield large. Corn crop maturing and yield unsurpassed by former years. Weather warm, but heat not excessive.

Tustin (E. D. Buss)—Weather continues quite warm; clear except a little fog one or two mornings. Corn ripening rapidly, promises a good yield. Apricots are being held for a fair price; the yield is less than last year, but the quality is better.

Winchester, San Diego county (J. M. Case)—Frequent thunderstorms occurred in the mountain ranges from the 15th to the 18th, but little rain fell in the valleys except on the 16th, which slightly injured grain in stack and hay, but very much sunshine was beneficial to the dampened grain and hay. San Diego (M. L. Heaml)—No precipion tature averaged 4° daily in excess of the normal.

National City, (Arthur H. Wood)—Warm and pleasa smashed them up. It also washed away the blacksmith shop and wood-work shop. The fencing is all gone in the path of the storm.

Owing to the lightness of the honey output in the State, certain persons are trying to create a corner and monopoly on the product. President Cannon of the Farmers' Alliance sounds the following warning in the last number of the Rural Press:
It is now known that the honey crop of this State will not be mora than one-fourth of that of last year, and middlemen have combined to keep the price down to that of a full crop. You are down to that of a full crop. therefore notified that the Alliance members of the largest producing counties have determined to hold their honey for better prices, and appeal to the honey producers of the counties of San Diego, San Bernardino, Orange, Los Angeles, Kern, Ventura, Santa Barbara and El Dorado to hold their crop for a short time and communicate with C. W. Newall at Murietta, San Diego county. Diego county.

PROSPEROUS ANTELOPE VALLEY.

Antelope Valley reports this year 65,000 acres of wheat as fine as any in California, which will average eight and one-half sacks (about 1100 pounds) to the acre. Four or five years ago this vast territory was in effect a desert. Now its grain crop alone will bring to the producers over a million dollars. But the valley does not propose to be content with grain It has recently been found that artesian wells can be sunk there at a mere nominal expense. For the first twenty or thirty feet through the surface soil it is necessary to case them; then the boring goes down through a hard-pan which serves without casing. The result is a cheap well. put down in an incredibly short time and a sure flow of water. A great number of these wells is being sunk, and in time a large part of the valley will be transformed into orchards. vineyards, alfalfa patches and such other green and profitable holdings.

A LITTLE DOGMATIC

These scientific fellows-especially the ones in Government employ-become a little arrogant and dictatorial once in a while; in short, they get the big head. Lieut. Finley, who is in charge of the Weather Office at San Francisco, is reported by the telegraph as saying: "To say that the Salton sea has anything to do with cloud-bursts is nonsense. The conditions are practically the same as in other py for this weather.) vears.'

Now it seems to us a bit of hardihood for any scientific man to assert dogmatically that any particular body of water has nothing to do with cloudbursts. It would be like declaring that the atmosphere has nothing to do with light, or that any other natural element does not discharge its natural functions.

What is a cloud-burst as we generally understand it? It is a sudden discharge of an immense mass of water from an overhanging cloud. How is this water accumulated in the cloud? It may be carried up in a water-spout, which operates like a tornado, sucking up its charge from any body of water which it crosses, or the cloud charge may be accumulated in vapors. Whatever the conditions of cloud formation, if some cause supervenes to make a sudden and voluminous downpour, we are apt to call it a cloud-burst. Now any body f water, no matter where situated, no matter how deep or how shallow, whether salt or fresh, is liable to be drawn upon either through evaporation or by the tornadoswirl, to form the cloud charge which eventuates in what we designate as a cloud-burst. What nonsense it is then to designate any body of water and say that it could have nothing to do with this natural

So far as the recent heavy downpours at Redlands are concerned, it would be difficult to say whether they should be technically classed as cloudbursts or not. But they were at least extraordinarily heavy rains, and they were quite unusual in their time of occurrence—everybody in Redlands will testify to these facts. Whether the particular water which fell at Redlands had been gathered up from the Salton Lake or not-that is not a matter susceptible of proof either way. We cannot label and identify water. But the presence of the Salton Lake on the desert is an unusual and phenomena condition. The conditions are not "practically the same as in other years," despite the assertion of Lieut. Finle to the contrary. It is true that the Salton basin has been flooded in former years, but the occasions are so marked as to make them matters of note There have also been cloud-bursts in the San Bernardino Mountains in former years.

process which is going on all the time!

Now we are confronted with several remarkable circumstances: A consid-Saturday will occupy the attention of erable accumulation of water in the Salton basin, extreme conditions of evaporation, and almost unprecedented rains in the foothills of the San Bernardine Mountains. What is more rational than to put these two and two together and call them four? What is nore dogmatic than to assert that the Salton Lake could not have had any thing to do with the Redlands cloud-

THE "SECRET" OF LEMON-CURING. H. K. Snow of Tustin has made a study of lemon growing and curing, and is now engaged in preparing his crop for market. As much talk and mystification has hitherto been indulged in by certain parties in River side and elsewhere about secret processes of curing lemons, it is interesting to present Mr. Snow's method which is detailed by the Santa Ana Blade as follows:

The lemons are picked when they begin to turn a rich color, and are of the proper size. Each picker is provided with a pair of nippers or shears, which are to be used in cipping the fruit from the tree instead or hippers of sucars, which are to be used of pulling it from the tree instead of pulling it from the tree after the old style. A one and three-quarter inch ring is also furnished the picker, which is used in determining the size of the fruit that is ready to be picked. All fruit that will not fill the ring is considered too small or insufficiently matured to be gathered, and is left on the tree until the next picking. The next step is to take the fruit to a storehouse, where an even temperature can be maintained at about 60°. Here the fruit is packed in single layers, in trays which are stacked one upon another, and left to cure, which may take from three to four months, or they may be packed and shipped sooner if the owner prefers. The light should be excluded from the curing-house to secure the best results. After the fruit has been sufficiently cured it is taken from the trays, wheel off with a cloth or brush, assorted into the first and second grade and wiped off with a cloth or brush, assorted into a first and second grade and is then ready for the packers. By this method the lemons may be perfectly cured, and preserved for three or four months or even longer-unti the best time for marketing. Therein lies the whole secret of profitable lemon-growing. The Blade declare that Mr. Snow's lemon crop is perhaps the finest class of lemons ever seen in the valley, not because they are of better variety of fruit, grew on better soil, or that the trees received more thorough cultivation, but the secre lies in the time or stage of ripeness and growth of the fruit in which it is picked, the manner in which it is taken from the tree, and the method of curing

An idea of the profits that can be de rived from a lemon orchard by proper care may be gained by taking an estimate from H. K. Snow's six-acre grove of eight-year-old trees. the present time he has picked about 1200 boxes, which is about two-thirds of the present year's crop. At the above estimate an acre would yield 300 boxes of merchantable fruit, which will bring this season an average of $2.50 per box, $750 per acre, or $4500 for the six acres of lemons.

Political Bargains and Sales. Los Angeles, Aug. 22.- To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I have read F. W. King's recent communication to THE TIMES having reference to an article written by myself, entitled What of '92?" in which the candidacy of Blaine was mentioned, and anything looking in the direction anything looking in the direction of Harrison as his own successor was deprecated. The "guass" of Mr. King was that "A Republican," when speaking of "bargains" and "trades," had in mind the alleged bargain between Adams and Clay. Such, however, I did not even refer to. Bargains of that, character, may not that he proof that character may not, in the po-litical history of our country, be very numerous, but there has certainly been more than the one to which Mr. K.ng refers as being false. No matter how unfounded the assertion that Clay en-tered into the compact with Adams, poor Clay suffered severely in consequence of the publication of the report. When writing the article which arrested Mr. King's attention, I had in view something of a later date than that to which Mr. King refers.

Moonshine. Los Angeles, Aug. 22 .- To the Editor of THE TIMES. | Your correspondent in this morning's TIMES. "Gicrious Climate," recommends Southern California to appoint a commission and examine the Salton Lake and re-

and examine the Salton Lake and report to Congress. As proof of the utility of such a course he says the loss of one orange crop would be far more than the cost of opening up the old channel of the Colorado River and drawing the lake into it.

Now an approximate cost of an orange crop in Southern Calitornia can be made. But can "Glorious Climaie" approximate the cost of drawing the Salton Lake into the ocean through the Colorado River, which is 360 feet above the lake, without first changing the present law of gravitation that requires water to run down hills. If he can, and it don't cost too much, I want to speak for a water-power to manufacture moonshine.

ROSIER (Mo.,) Aug. 17.—|Corre-pondence.] For several years the farmers of this part of Bates county have joined with those of Cass county in an annual wolf hunt. The rocky woods and hills along the headwaters of Biack's Creek and Grand River are favorite baunts of a band of big timber wolves, which causes much damage to farmers through loss of young stock, especially caives and lambs. In two instances have children become victims to the ravenous beasts, and the determination to weed out the pests comes upon the farmers every year about the time the wheat harvest is over. On the lst or August word was over. On the 1st of August word was sent around for a meeting to organize a wolf hunt on a grander scale than ever before, and on the following day, Sunday, there was a meeting of over two hundred men at the big barn of Sam Lickinder, near Everett. Here the full details were arranged and preparation made to begin the hunt on the morning of the 18th.

It was decided to divide the men into four companies and make a drive from all points of the compass to a common center so that all the wolves in the center so that all the wolves in the country might be got into a small space of territory, Captains were appointed for each band and the whole affair was placed in charge of Edward Limpus, who lost two cnildren by the brutes two years ago. The country over which the hunt was to be made is one of the roughest bits in the State, being composed of heavy timber and rocks in which there is no chance to go faster than a slow walk. The paths through the hills are so bad that it is difficult for a horse to get along and it was determined to abandon the horses was determined to abandon the horses at the edge of the deusest timber and make the close of the hunt on foot. Heretolore the hunt has invariably been made entirely on horseback with the result that a number of the animals always got away. The men were to meet at Rosier on the evening of the 17th so as to be ready for an early start next mornig.

On the morning of the 18th there were assembled at this place all told, men and boys, 240 persons prepared to take part in the nunt. They were di-vided into four companies of sixty men each, under old nunters, and he plan of action was given out so that all would reach the center about the same time. All firearms were barred for there was too much danger of shooting each other in the excitement of a close finish. Each man and boy was armed with a club and knife, and it was expected that the slaughter would be made at close quarters. The signal was to be given by the company which was to close in on the eastern side, as they had to go farther than the other. At 6 o'clock the start was made and the companies took up their positions ready for the signal to advance. This was the firing of a gun by the captain of the eastern squad, which was heard at 10 o'clock. When the different companies approached the center close enough to see each other they spread out and made a living circle around the out and made a living circle around the spot where they knew the wolves had their dens. The horses were placed in the care of boys and the men began to work their way down toward the center. The lines were narrowed down until the men were able to make a close search and the fun began. The first wolf made a break directly for a man who was a little nervous and would who was a little nervous and would have got away had it had it not been for a man who was a little late coming in time to get the animal. Soon the men had all they could do in driving the had alf they could do in driving the wolves from place to place. The animals in the band numbered about sixteen and as they dashed from one side of the circle to the other it looked as if the woods were full of the big grey brutes. It was not long until the wolves found that they were hemmed in, and they changed their tactics and aboved fight to their pursuers. showed fight to their pursuers. James Cahill and Joseph Hodges received severe bites, but they finished the animals, and the result of the hunt was the total destruction of the band with the exception of one big fellow that made a dash for liberty which was successful.

Bering Sea Commissioners Complete Their Tour of Inspection.

Mysterious Murder of a Chinaman Near San Jose-Another Blazs at Gridley-Death of a.

By Telegraph to The Times. . SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—[By the Associated Press.] The engineers of the Southern Pacific Company have been investigating the desert sea at Salton and their report will be given in the Chronicle tomorrow. The report says in part:

'The present lake covers a surface of about 156 square, miles. Two channels enter it, one known as the new river, the other as the broken arroyo. The latter was closed a number of years ago by sand, but the high floods in February, 1891, washed it out and through it most of the water entered the desert. The first rush of water amounted to 16,000 cubic feet per sec-ond, and commenced in the latter part of June. Now it is only 3000 feet. "Since the 15th of July this flow has

Commissioners Return-A Sealer Big Catch.

TACOMA (Wash.,) Aug. 23.—[By the Associated Press.] Prof. J. C. Mendenhail and C. H. Merriam, United States Bering Sea commissioners, arrived here last night from Alaska on the U. S. S. Albatross. In an interview Prof. Mendenhall stated that they had a success ful voyage, but he refused to make any statement in regard to the conclusions reached or the reports to be made to the Government.

The Albatross left San Francisco July 16, and arrived at Ounalaska July July 16, and arrived at Ounalaska July 25. There the transport Danube with the British commissioners was found. St. George and St. Paul islands, and the Univak Rookeries were carefully examined by all the commissioners. The Albatross started south from Ounalaska August 13, having spent two weeks in investigating the condition of seals.

VICTORIA (B. C.,) Aug. 23.—The sealing scuconer W. P. Sayward returned from Bering Sea yesterday with S00 skins. The Sayward is the first vessel of the season to return to port without being ordered to leave the sea. The captain says the weather was fine for sealing. Seals were plentiful and he could have doubled his catch, but the ludian crew became afraid of seizure and insisted on returning home.

Acoused His Crew of Mutiny. VICTORIA (B. C.,) Aug. 23.—The bark Pisagua arrived today from Chilean ports to load lumber at Moody ville. She left Chile June 6, and had an eventful voyage. The captain re ported a mutiny on board, and on arriving has the mate and two of the crew arrested. One of the men was in chains, and he said he had been in that condition for seven weeks. Twe of the crew were stowaways who were auxious to get away from Chile. The crew deny tile mutiny, and say that when a short time at sea provisions gave out, and the supply of meat was too rotten to eat, and all they had

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.-Rudolph Hocpkofler, Austro-Hungarian consul at this city, died this morning from valvular disease of the heart, from which he has suffered for the past six months. Hochkofler was born in Trieste, Austria, and when a young man, emigrated to Valparaiso where he learned the coffee trade. In 1853 he came to San Francisco and has been engaged in merchandise business ever since. He was Austrian consul from early in the sixtles till 1870, when he resigned, but a few years after accepted the place again and held it till death. In the interval between he was consul for Chile. He leaves two daughters, both married.

A Chinaman Murdered named Ah Ling was found dead this evening on the broad-gauge railroad three miles north of here at a point 200 vards from where the railroad is crossed by the Fish road. The Chinaman was found lying in a ditch near the track. There was a gaping knife wound in the center of the chest, while on the top of the head were two groups of queer looking wounds.
These were three-cornered holes as sharply defined as they could have been cut with a knife. It is supposed the Chinaman was killed and robbed by tramps, or highbinders from Chinatown.

Went to Sleep on the Track. VICTORIA (B. C.,) Aug. 23.—A man named William Tell was probably fatally injured on the Northeastern Railway track yesterday. Tell was lying asleep on the track when the southbound passenger train came along. It was too late to stop the train when the engineer saw Tell, and he was struck by the pilot of the engine. He was brought to the city and placed in a hospital.

FOUND IN THE RIVER.

The Body of a Missing Man Discovered.
St. Paul, Aug. 23.—By the Associated Press. | On Friday night the body of a well dressed man was found floating in the river near the city. This afternoon the remains were identified as those of George J. Osborne, superintendent of the Milwaukee Company's elevators at Minneapolis, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago. Two ten-pound stones were found in the pockets of his coat, and it is thought he suicided. It is also hinted that he lost money during the recent wheat flurry, although there are no grounds for believing that he did not have his business affairs in perfect order. Galveston Loses Trade. NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.-The Picayune's Dallas (Tex.) special says: "A dispatch from Austin says that the cotton sales proposed by the Texas Railroad Commission will have the effect of turning the cotton and other trade from Gaiveston to New Orleans. In respect to the probability of the change, the consensus of unprejudiced opinion is that New Orleans possesses a manifold advantage over Galveston for handling ocean treight.' Lynchers Disappointed LIMA (O.,) Aug. 23.—The people of Columbus were out en masse last night to meet the north-bound train on the Cincinnati Hamilton and Ohio Railroad, on which it was expected James Roberts, arrested for the Columbus Grove murder and robbery, would be a passenger. Threats of lynching a passenger. Threats of lynching were freely made, but Roberts did not arrive. The prisoner's father says he will prove an alibi for his son.

To End a Bear Boycott St. Louis, Aug. 28 .- The Brewers' Union of America met here today in national convention. The only business transacted was the election of temporary officers. The chief object of the convention is to arrive at a settle-ment regarding the boycott on the Anheuser-Busch and Lemp breweries by a local union. The boycott is of two years' standing. It is expected a settlement will be arrived at.

A Lunatic Kilis His Mother. Columbus (O.,) Aug. 23.—Charles King, a mild-mannered patient at the insane asylum, secured permission to visit his mother at Circleville. Today while she was preparing a meal he shot her through the body, kitting her instantly. He also tried to kill an aunt, Mrs. Davenport. He labored under the delusion that his mother caused his incarceration in the asylum.

An ex-Congressman Dead. WHEELING (W. Va.,) Aug. 23 .-Hon. Chester D. Hubbard died here today. He was a member of the Virginia Secession Convention and voted sgainst secession. He was a member of the National Convention that nomi-nated Lincoln in 1864, and from 1865 to 1867 represented this district in Congress.

At an old homestead in Phenix there i a piazza running along the house, and stout pillars are there at intervals to up-hold the piazza. On one of these pillars is an autograpa collection representing four an autograpa collection representing four generations of the family, besides the names of many who have been guests at the house. Opposite each name is a horizontal mark which denotes the height of the person named there. When at times the old house has been painted the names and signs have been carefully retraced. Away down at the bottom of the pillar are marks with quaint names beside them, where the little people measure the height where the little people measure the height of the dogs and cats of the place, and, like ascending steps, are marks and dates, year following year, of those whose stature was registered from time to time till manhood or womanhood was reached.

The other day there came over a kin of the family, who, forty years ago, stood up to be measured at 'the pillar, then he was a youngster, about a yard high, and "here was the measure mark and the name, with was the measure mark and the name, with the date, 1851. When the gray haired man looked at it he cried: "Why, you know I' am a positive simpleton over this, but I can't help it. I go right back to the time when I stood there, and my mother bent over me and marked above, my head that line, and wrote the words; then she said so gently, 'Sometime, when your head gets away up the post, you'll be a man and take care of mother. won't vou?'

gets away up the post, you?"

Then the man dropped his head and choked up, while tears fell on his clasped hands. "And before I ever got to be more than a lonesome, downhearted boy my poor mother died. When I think of her, it is as she looked then, standing there, with a white dress on, and bending over me with the sweetest smile I ever saw or ever will see."—Providence Journal.

Ancient Mechanical Tools.

At the Royal society conversazione great deal of interest was excited by the exhibition of sixty tools and utensils of the These included an anvil, a pair of blacksmith's tongs, hammer, axes, gouges, chisels, adzes, a large carpenter's plane, two shoemaking anvils, two plow colters, a standing lamp, a gridiron, a bronze scale beam and others.

Many of these articles were most remark ably like similar tools of the present day, the plane, which was evidently a "trying and entirely of metal, being very suggestive of a Yankee origin. It is said to be the only Roman plane found in Brit-ain.—New York Telegram

A Question of Time

A Woodward avenue druggist who sleep bers when he was awakened by a pound ing on his door.
"Who's there?" he shouted.

Supposing some one was in urgent nece of medicine for a sufferer the druggist hurried into his clothes and opened the door. A man stood outside, who placidly inquired:

"Have you the time?" "Yes," shouted the angry druggist, as he bolted his door, "and I'll keep it too." —Detroit Free Press.

Telegraphing with Cannons When the first vessel completed the passage of the then new Erie canal, in 1825, there being no such thing as a telegraph in those days, the news was communicated in those days, the news was communicated to New York and to Buffalo by cannon placed within hearing of each other all the way along from Albany to each of the other cities. The signal was passed along in this way from Albany to New York cit; and back again to Albany in fifty-eigh minutes. The experiment was a cost! one, but was a success in every particular -St. Louis Republic.

Decidedly remarkable is the camphor tree, from which camphor is prepared by boiling the chopped branches in water. It is mainly produced in the island of Formosa. Inasmuch as it grows well in the southern states, there is reason to believe that the preparation of camphor will some day become a profitable industry in this country.—Washington Star.

FRESH LITERATURE.

TALES OF TWO COUNTRIES. By ALEXAK-DER KIELLAND. Translated from the Nor-wegian by William Archer, with an intro-duction by H. H. Boycson. (New York: Harper & Bros. For sale by Stoll & Thayer, Los Angeles.)

The author of this charming volume of short stories is one of the strongest of the younger Norwegian novelists, and he is one whose acquaintance American readers will delight to make. One great charm of his stories is his originality of style, which is direct, unlabored and full of the touch of naturalness. We go abroad with him in this little volume and get a glimpse at the peculiarities of different nationalities. It is as if the author had set us down in the midst of the social life of his own and other peoples. We like 'the freshness and charm of We like the freshess and canal of all that, and sometimes wish that his stories did not so soon come to an end. We find human nature in his books just as it exists in real life. His characters are like new acquaintances with whom we hold company and that pleases us. We feel broader and more cosmopolitan; as if we had seen something of the world.

A good encyclopedia is felt to be an indepensable feature of every library in this age of the world, and the acknowledged head of all encyclopedias knowledged head of all encyclopedias is that of the Britannica. One noticeable feature of this great work is, that it is something of a language-maker. In it there are 10,000 words which have never been formally entered and defined in any dictionary. It is full of the wealth of research and represents a vast army of intelligent writers, the value of whose work cannot well be estimated. Stoll & Thayer offer this work to the public at half its former price, in well-bound volumes, and in clear type, affording a rare opportunity to obtain this great encyclopedia by monthly installments, or otherwise, as suits the parchaser. The great Russian people and government are objects of interest to the civilized world, which regards it perhaps more than any country as the land of the autocrat, where barbarism and civilization and oppression meet and mingle. The book before us presents a vivid picture of Russian life and character, strange contrasts of light and shadow, and will be read with interest by all who wish to gain a clearer insight into the real life of that wast empire, which stretches over so standard work, unfolding as it does, for the first time, scenery of such ununparalled beauty and grandeur, so graphically described and so profusely and handsomely illustrated. All this grand region is unrolled upon its pages like some vast panorama. Upon its pages are portrayed lofty mountains and charming valleys: placid lakes and charming valleys; placid lakes and thundering cataracts; giant trees and brilliant flora; the mammoth glaciers of Alaska, compared with which those of Switzerland sink into insignificance; stupendous feats of railroad engineering, and wild hunt-ing and fishing scenes, famous mines and mining camps; wonderful geysers and hot springs; petrified forsets and grottoed caverns; unrivaled health and pleasure resorts; vast stock and grain ranches; olive groves and orange orchards, together with its beautiful towns and cities—in brief an beautiful towns and cities—in brief an epitome of the wonders and charms which the section affords. As we turn its pages the marvels of this wonderland of free America grow upon us and we are glad of the sumptuous work which affords us such glimpses of its grandeur as are afforded us by the text, supplemented by its more than seven bundred superhillustre. than seven hundred superb illustra-

BURNED TO DEATH.

Saturday's Sad Accident Ends Fataliy.

SOUTH PASADENA SQUABBLE

Over Terminal Rates-Excitement over a Baby-A Citizen Paralyzed-Personals and Early Saturday evening Miss Marcia J. French died at her home on Summit avenue from the injuries she received in the morning, as detailed in yesterday's issue of THE TIMES.

Coroner Weldon was notified. Yesterday morning he came to Pasadena and held an inquest over the remains. The following persons composed the jury: John R. Reynolds, Jr., foreman; Joseph Simons, G. H. Bandel, Alex C. Stewart, L. E. Canfield and T. W. Gottman.

Mrs. J. R. Clark, a sister of the deceased, whose home is at Altadena, was first called upon to testify. She arrived at the scene of the accident soon after it had happened, and re-mained with her sister until death mained with her sister until death sended her sufferings. Miss French told her she had plucked a bunch of Bermuda grass on Friday and kept it in the house that night. Saturday morning she used it in starting the fire. After the fire was kindled, she attempted to lift off one of the stove-life wing her sprop as a holder. The flids, using her apron as a holder. The flame from the grass burst forth, and in a moment her clothing was all ablaze. Instead of attempting to smother the flames she rushed into the yard. She told the witness that the accident was due wholly to her own

Mr. Axford, a neighbor, next testified. He had only just returned home from Miss French's house, where he had been watering his horse, when he was attracted by her piteous cries for her assistance and was attracted by her phecous cries for help. He ran to her assistance and after vainly attempting to tear the burning clothing from the woman, he turned a stream of water from the gar-don hose upon her and soon had the don hose upon her and soon had the flames extinguished.

The physicians who were summoned found the woman very badly burned from the abdomen up. The skin was almost entirely destroyed and she had inhaled some of the flames. Everything possible was done to relieve her sufferings, but she was beyond the aid of human help and not many hours later death came to her relief.

After being made acquainted with the above facts the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that death had resulted from burns received from the suited from burns received from the accidental burning of the deceased's clothing. Miss French was in the 57th year of her age.

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

It will be interesting to note what action the City Trustees of South Pasadena will take at their meeting tonight. relative to the increased rates that went into effect yesterday on the Terminal road.

The burden of complaint seems to rest with the commuters, who under the new schedule are compelled to pay about 50 cents more for sixty-trip tickete than before. While the com-muters are not especially numerous they fairly made Rome howl during the latter part of last week and had pre-pared a series of resolutions in which it was decreed that no South Pasa-denians should pay more than the for-mer rate of fare. This would necessitate forcible expulsion from the train, which would clear the way for a test

Fortunately such a course was prop erly sized up as being uawise and no such sentiment was embodied in the resolutions which were finally passed at the meeting. It is understood that some of the railroad officials will meet with the City Trustees, and without knowing anything about it, the prediction is here made that the difficulty will be amicably adjusted by the Ter-minal people agreeing to a slight re-duction in the price of commutation tickets, which now cost $4.75.

It is strange that our friends of the sister city should postpone action until the last possible moment. The rumon that the trustees feel sorely snubbed because they were not consulted in the matter by the railroaders may be true and then again it may not. Better follow Pasadena's example and do the square thing peaceably and in order. NEW HIGH-SCHOOL CURRICULUM.

The following is the High-school curriculum as arranged for the scien tific and literary courses. It will be remembered that Pasadena will have High school proper for the first time this fall. This necessitates adding a twelfth year to the course and making some important changes in the studies from the ninth year up. The first eight years' studies remain practically unchanged.

The studies are arranged thus:
Scientific course: Ninth year—first term, English, bookkeeping, elementary geometry, physiology; second term, English, algebra, elementary term, Engusa, algebra, closing ageometry, botany.

Tenth year—First term, English, algebra, physics, German or French; second term, English, algebra, physics, THOUGHT HER BABY WAS DEAD. There was unwented excitement Saturday evening on South Fair Oaks avenue in the vicinity of Orange place.

A woman ran out of her house, holding an infant in her arms and screaming at concert pitch: "My baby is dead." Several neighbors hastened to her relief and Constable Noseworthy went off post-haste in search of a doctor, and when he and the physician returned they found the baby had come back to life again and was in full possession of its pristine health and vigor. It seems the mother had given the baby a slight overdose of some quieting medicine and the unusually soothing effect of the draught led her to believe that her child had departed this life. Hence the ensuing excitement.

JAMES WILL BECOME A BENEDICT. ing an infant in her arms and scream

JAMES WILL BECOME A BENEDICT. popular City Clerk, James H. Camnessed by none others than the intimate friends and relatives. After a week's wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cambell will return to Pasadena to reside permanently. Congratulations will not be lacking, as both of the contracting parties have hosts of friends. Further particulars of the ceremony will be given tomorrow.

STRICKEN BY PARALYSIS. The many friends of H. J. Slaughter were surprised to learn that he had suffered a stroke of paralysis early yesterday morning at his residence, corner of Center street and Los Robles avenue. One side of Mr. Slaughter's body was affected, rendering one arm helpless. At last accounts he was improving. This is the first time Mr. Slaughter has been afflicted in this way, and his friends hope for a speedy recovery. recovery.

A memorial service in honor of the late James Russell Lowell will be held next Sunday evening at the First Congregational Church. The exercises, which are in charge of the ladies of the church, promise to be of an exceed-ingly interesting character. Several addresses will be delivered, one on the author as a poet, another discussing him as a critic, and a third dealing with his public life. Special music will be prepared for the occasion.

STILL NOT HEARD FROM. Sewing Machine Agent Parmer of the Singer Company is still among the dead or missing. Nothing as to his whereabouts was learned yesterday. The police are hard at work endeavor-The police are hard at work endeavor-ing to clear up the mystery, but their endeavors have thus far been fruitless. There is still no evidence at tand to show that there is anything wrong with Parmer's accounts or that he has bilked anyone.

GONE TO GIVE AN ACCOUNT. Col. E. N. Robinson has been called to London to explain how he has managed the San Jacinto estate (limited,) which is owned by a large English syndicate. As the Colonel has managed the estate for the past twenty years he will probably experience no difficulty in answering any questions that may be asked him by the stockholders and directors. The entire estate consists of 46,000 acres, including the tin mines. Col. Robinson conducted the the affairs of the company on a broad-gauged, liberal basis, but it is now claimed that the temporary managers, who are acting in his stead during his absence, are doing just the reverse. The plans of the former manager of the company being the development of the vast property are being entirely neglected. It is also asserted that the temporary managers employ none but Cornishmen on the work if they can help it. Being themselves Cornishmen this is but characteristic. It is certainly not to the interest of Southern California or the United States to dwarf the development of the Temescal tin mines, but this it would seem is what the English owners intend to do. The tin supply of Southern California, of which so much has been said and written, is liable to be confined to small limits if it is not altogether done away with. It seems strange that all the work inaugurated by Col. Robinson, having for its object the development of the tin mines, should be suddenly dropped. THEY WANT TO INCORPORATE. to London to explain how he has managed the San Jacinto estate (limited.)

THEY WANT TO INCORPORATE. The good people of Perris are seriously considering the question of incorporating and assuming the airs of a full-fledged metropolitan city. One of the objects of this move is to rid the city of drunken loafers. A committee of five citizens has been appointed to consider the matter in all of its various features. This is a correction of statements previously midd that there were ments previously made that there was talk of disincorporating. Perris has not yet been incorporated.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED. At the last meeting of the Society of California Pioneers the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, that we deem it proper to express to our fellow-trustee A. M. Kenniston, on the occasion of his visit to the East, our sincere and hearty appreciation of his valuable public services for our city, and of our entire confidence in his uprightness and integ-rity as an officer and as a citizen, and beg him to carry on his visit and to be assured of the renewed and in-creased esteem of his large circle of old friends and substantial citizens of San Bernardino.

A resolution was also adopted com-mendatory of Trustees Lesher, Mee and Lightfoot.

CITY BRIEFS. The funeral of Mrs. Harry Hillyer took place yesterday at 4 p.m. from the family residence. The remains were followed to the grave by a large concourse of friends. Mrs. Hillyer was highly respected and beloved by all who knew her. The usual crowd of pleasure-seekers went to Redondo and Santa Monica yesterday.

Perris is putting on airs and will probably hire a night watchman to guard the town from fire.

HEAD OF THE GRAND ARMY.

Sketch of the Newly Elected Commander in Chief. Captain John Palmer, the newly elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has a brilliant military record, both family and personal, as he and his father enlisted early. The father was killed in the service, and the son was once carried off the field for dead, but he survived through skillful anyways and a survived through skillful anyways and a survived through skillful surgery and a good constitution.

He was born on Staten Island, March 22, 1842, and while a boy was taken to Albany, where his father opened a paint shop, in which the son worked. At the age of which the son worked. At the age of nineteen, on Sept. 10, 1861, he enlisted in Company B of the Ninety-first New York volunteers, and was elected second lieutenant. His rise through the war was slow, and he was but a brevet captain when he reached home, July 3, 1865. He had taken part in a very large number of engagements, and always with honor. At Five Forks the horse of the adjutant was shot dead and fell on Captain Palmer, the adjutant's saber piercing the captain's adjutant's saber piercing the captain's back in such a way as to almost sever the spine. A very delicate and skillful operation saved his life.

Since the war he has been a boss painter

THE CHURCHES.

Two Able Sermons by Rev. Mr. Easton.

PETER'S FAREWELL FATHER

A Large Audlence at the Cathedra Last Evening-At Y. M. C. A. Hall-Church Notes.

Rev. T. Chalmers Easton of San[Francisco occupied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church yesterday both morning and even-ing. Dr. Easton has taken an active part in the trial of Rev. John W. Ellis before the San Francisco presbytery and is a man whose decision of character is apparent in whose decision of character is apparent in every tone and gesture. He has a smooth, round face, keen eyes, a high forehead and that mark of genius—a slightly bald head. He took for the text of his morning sermon, "To what purpose is this waste?" His discourse was like a piece of rare mosaic, so perfectly was every thought fitted, the arguments leading step by step up to the grand central idea—the infinity of God. Beginning with the universe at large he referred to the unlimited amount of wisdom and energy which is wasted every year. In the minera world what vast treasures of value have laid deep buried in the earth for thousands of world what vast treasures of value have laid deep buried in the earth for thousands of years, perhaps millions of centuries! Generations of men have lived and died in poverty, wretchedness and wickedness who might have been comforted and helped by these gems out of the great sealed treasurehouse of the Aimighty. "To what purpose is this waste?"

In the vegetable world observe the skill, beyond that of human wisdom, with which is fashioned a single leaf or flower, yet millions of them bloom but to fade and die. What fruits drop untasted! What flowers bloom unseen! Each blossom on an apple tree is a work of the highest set, and yet but one in many comes to fruitage.

Ascending into the animal kingdom the same stern problem confronts us. Naturalists have but a beginning in the classification of species. Each drop of water is alive with life; each particle of matter teems with life, each one fashioned by a perfect hand, "To what purpose is this waste?"

Go up higher—to man—the head and crown of all creation. How strange it is that one-third of the entire human race die in infancy and the average age of man is but thirty years. This vast harvest of death in infantile iife, "To what purpose is this waste?" A young man, full of richest promises, laden with honors is prostrated. Death levels his arrow at him, and buried are all the fruits of a long and careful training. What a multitude of such graves rise before us, and the wail of humanity is, "To what purpose is this waste?"

In time of the particular cases of this kind Dr. Easton referred in tender tones to careful training. What a multitude of such graves rise before us, and the wail of humanity is, "To what purpose is this wate?"

In citing some individual cases of this kind Dr. Easton referred in tender tones to the recent death of Rev. R. Mayne Irvine, who stood on the very threshold of active usefulness. "The som of my warm, personal friend, Dr. Talmage," he continued, "the young DeWitt, is a parallel instance, He was one of the most brilliant men who ever graced the bar, but in the first year of that brilliant career he dropped and passed away. The same mystery startles thousands. How shall we answer this great problem? First of all by its very mysteriousness we are taught the infinity of the divine nature. God's purposes are too infinite to be comprehended. Were there no mystery clothing His nature He would be God no longer. With what infinite power He can create and destroy! The very lavishness and plenty surrounding us is a constant rebuke to our narrow prodigality. There are men who cannot enter a home of wealth and culture and behold the works of art without crying out 'To what purpose this waste?' That was the disciples' cry when the woman poured upon the head of Jesus the precious ointment and He rebuked them saying 'Wily trouble ye the woman?' She hath wrought a good work upon me.' There are men who perpetually cry out 'To what purpose this waste?' The infinite is eyer beyond our reach.

"Mothers who have wept over vacant cradies, fathers who mourn the loss of talented sons, lift up your eyes and see your loved ones in that upper kingdom where God has set them as your hearts' magnets to draw you heavenward. Of what use is a guide if we know every step of the way? If the Almighty were to make known all his purposes, where is the use of faith? God's giory lies in deep concealed mysteries as well as in the brightness of perfect understanding."

The eloquent speaker closed his sermon with some beautiful lines of a poem embodying the sontiment "Whatever the darkness about me, He knoweth the way I take." A and prosperity of the Nation. They are the foundation liad by eternal wisdom. He went on to show how society has come to overshadow the family, how it molds and shapes it, forms marriage contracts and steps in between parents and children. Society rears, educates and disposes of the steps in between parents and children. Society rears, educates and disposes of the children, invading even the nursery. A fashionable education means to be unfitted for home life. Professedly pious people are domineered by society, and so much has it crept into the family as to neutralize all religious feeling. There are national, educational, temperance, State and civil service reforms, but no home reforms. He made a strong point of the need of reform in family literature. Nearly one-sixth of the reading matter sent out from the American publishing houses consists of novels of the worst type. The New York Society for the Prevention of Vice reported 123,000 obscene publications sent out in one moath to invade the homes and seminaries of the land.

Rev. Henry Crabbe of this city, who is a personal friend of Dr. Easton's, occupied the pulpit with him last evening and offered the opening prayer. Dr. Easton will remain in the city during the week and will preach again next Sunday at the First Presbyerian Church.

FATHER PETER'S FAREWELL.
Rt. Rev. Peter Verdaguer, Bishop o Brounsville, Tex., leaves for his new field of labor today, foliowed by the best wishes of his hundreds of friends in this city and county. Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock an informal reception was given the Bishop in the pariors of the old church opposite the Plaza, when a delegation of prominent ladies, on behalf of his old congregation in this city, presented the Bishop with a substantial testimonial of their regard and appreciation in the shape of a well-filled metallic box, containing about $700. The Bishop replied in a few well-chosen remarks expressive of his gratitude, concluding by giving his episcopal blessing.

The following letter accompanied the box: Brounsville, Tex., leaves for his new field ing by giving his episcopal blessing.

The following letter accompanied the box:

Beloved Father: Your Lordship being on the point of Jeaving this city, which has been during the past seventeen years the scene of your zealous efforts in the cause of the Holy Church; we, the representatives of your many and sincere friends, cannot allow your Lordship to depart without assembling together to testify the respect and affection which we ail bear to you. And while we most sincerely congratulate you upon the exalted dignity to which you have been raised by the Holy See, we at the same time cannot but regret your departure. Therefore, beloved Father. we begt to offer you this small token of the sincere regard of the many friends, both present and absent, and we hope that although far distant, you will think of us sometimes and remember us in your prayers. In all respect and affection, we subscribe ourselves, Your Lordship's Faithfull Friends, but farewell sermon at the cathedral before an immense congregation. The Bishop is a speaker of fare power and earnestness and is a bright and shining light in the Catholic Church. A special programme of music had been prepared for the occusion and was most artistically rendered under the direction of Prof. A. G. Gardner.

At the Y. M. C. A. rooms Rev. Fred Fisher, from the North, who is at present cocupying the pulpit left vacant by the death of Rev. R. Mayne Irvine, conducted the regular 4 o'clock service, taking for his subject, "What is it to be a Christian?" A. W. Hare rendered a fine solo.

Rev. James Patterson, a Bresbyterian minister of Tacoma, occupied the pulpit of Imm anuel Presbyterian Church yesterday morning, preaching an excellent sermon from the text, "If a man die shall he live again?" He is an extemporaneous and forcible spenker. Each successive thought is arranged with such precision as to complete a perfect chain of argument.

Frederick K. Rindge, a resident of this city, and a member of the First Methodist Church, has recently given the sum of $25,000 to the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school Union, to be used for the purpose of planting Sunday-schools in places where they do not now exist. Mr. Rindge was formerly a resident of Cambridge, Mass., and inherited great wealth from his father. His gifts to his native city have amounted to over half a million dollars.

I had been sick five months, paid out large sums of money for doctors and medicine but derived no benefit. Dr. Wong Him was recommended to me by a friend. I did not think Locald are well as a my living and kidney. I could get well, as my lungs and kidneys I could get well, as my lungs and kidneys were very bad and getting worse all the time. Dr. Wong Him took me in this condition; he has in two months' time entirely cured-me, and now I feel it my duty to testify in his bealf. I wish to recommend him to the public as an efficient and skillful physician.

DR. WOH. The Eminent Chinese Physician.

Dr. Woh's life work has been from early youth one of persistent and untiring observation, study and investigation, as fully as lay in his power to perfect himself in all branches of the art of healing human sickness and disease. Born in China, of influential parents, of a family whose ancestors have been for generations deservingly renowned as leading physicians, Dr. Woh naturally followed in the footsteps of his fathers. In China he has practiced his profession for several years, being at one time a physician in the imperial Hospital, and in America for a long time his great number of patients, his wonderful and many cures, and the great list of letters from grateful and thankful patrons now prove him to be a remarkable and successful healer of sickness and all diseases.
